To us the robber appears harmless in comparison while the common thief sinks into insignificance; their crimes appear small when compared with him who seduces the reformed man thereby rubbing society of one of its brightest ornaments and placing instead a pest and madman. If it be productive of evil ought not our Legislature (whose duty it is to enact good and wholesome laws) to make the seduction of a reformed man a crime punishable by imprisonment? We think so, for he who would seduce a reformed man from the path of rectitude is not safe to be at large. The crime (for a crime it is and one of the most dastard and brutal character,) should be punished with a penalty in proportion to the offence. Let our citizens then take this matter into consideration and by petitions to the Legislature and addresses to the people cause such action to be taken on the subject that the seducer of a reformed man can ne longer play his bellish game with impunity because there exists no law under which to arraign him. x.

> For the Quincy Patriot. LINES,

ON THE DEATH OF MISS M. B. OF BRAINTREE. Sister! thou art called to leave us, And thy spirit yearns for peace ; God himself doth oft bereave us, But his love will never cease. Haste thee ! to thy heavenly home, For thy Redeemer bids thee come.

There in glory thou'lt ever sing Praises to thy Savior's name; While seraphs to thy spirit bring Crowns of everlasting fame. Jehovah welcomes thee above, For thou hast gained his holy love.

Thou art done with earthly pleasure God hath called thee home to rest; Richer is the heav'nly treasure, Which will bear the Almighty's test, Zion is now thy only home, Where God, thy Father, reigns alone.

We around thy bier have gathered, And in anguish dropt the tear; Ties of friendship now are severed, And the bonds that once were dear. Sorrow and mourning fill each soul, While joys eternal o'er thee roll.

We mourn, for ne'er again below, Shall we see thy youthful form ; Jehovah with an awful blow, Has thy presence from us torn. Terrific was the solemn word, Which summoned thee before thy God.

Peace and happiness now are thine-Thou didst live a harmless life; Virtue within thy heart did shine, Blemished not by worldly strife. Thou hast obtained the great reward, That cheered thy soul on life's dark road.

Thou art happy-grief and sorrow Ne'er will enter thy abode ; Secure in eternal glory, Thou wilt praise the most high God. Cares and troubles-sorrow and pain, Will enter not His vast domain

Rural Repository.

THE 'Rural Repository' is a neat and elegant semi-monthly Periodical, published in the City of Hudson, Columbia County, New York, and which we believe is the oldest literary paper in the United States, having commenced its twentieth volume on the twenty-sixth of August last; and while it has made no very great pretensions to public favor, it is far better than those publications who boast long and loud of their claims to public patronage. Amid the fluctuations of the world, and the ups and downs of the periodical press, for nearly a score of years this little miscellany has pursued 'the even tenor of its interest and popularity, and our readers will, of course infer, that if it had no merit it would have shuffled off this mortal coil 'long time ago.'

It is devoted to Polite Literature, and no where in the United States, is it excelled for neatness of typographical execution, or in appropriate and useful selections. As an elegant specimen of letter press printing it stands without a rival, and it may be said, in truth, to be a specimen of the 'art preservative of all arts. It has outlived many a flaunting city rival, ' Mirrors,' and ' Gems,' and ' Caskets,' (gaudy as butterflies, and about as long lived,) and now, if the ' Repository' does not outshine the last novelties, it will survive them, and charm many a reader after their titles are forgotten. Its columns are filled with agreeable and interesting miscellany, well calculated to interest and instruct the young of both sexes; and the good taste and discrimination of its editor is evinced, in the total exclusion of those long and pointless productions which lumber up the columns of the ' mammoth' sheets of New York and Philadelphia. In short, we know of no Journal of similar character, better calculated to cheer and enliven the family circle. One or more engravings, and also a portrait of some her remnants of last season ribbon much below cost. distinguished person, will embellish each number; consequently it will be one of the neatest, cheapest, and best literary papers in the country. It would make a very suitable present to young people, the la-

The this establishment tale commences with the present volume, and will end with the tenth number.

To the Editor of the Rural Repository,

DEAR SIR-1 wish to express to you the hearty gratification I have experienced in the perusal of the tale you are now publishing in your neat and pleasing periodical. I consider 'The Gipsy Mother' one of the best tales now in circulation. Indeed, the chaste and elegant style in which it is written, the correct delineations of human nature which it presents, the thrilling interest of the scenes it describes, and last not least the moral it inculcates, must render it a general favorite with all persons of refined and cultivated 6 1-4 to 25 cts per vard are detailed without that false gilding and those super- to 10 cts. per yard. fluous decorations which divert the attention of the reader, and engender an apathy at the moment of ex- GAMBROONS, etc.

This story is a genuine 'multum in parco.' The their interest to call thread of the tale, in the hands of some authors, would have been spun out into a lengthy novel; but here we have all the incidents of such a novel without its prolixity-all the interest without the apathy. This pleasing and unostentatious style reminds one of Thompson's description of real beauty : it Needs not the foreign aid of ornament, But is, when unadorned, adorned the most.

In reading 'The Gipsy Mother,' I could not help remarking the resemblance it bears to that famous pro-duction of Sue's, 'The Mysteries of Paris'—I mean in Quincy, July 22. regard to the manner in which the tale is told, and the nature of the scenes portraved, and I trust I shall not be considered enthusiastic in my encomiums when I say that, in point of interest, it is not at all inferior even to that justly celebrated work. In point of moral tendency it deserves a pre-eminance.

The evils of enforced marriage are presented in such high colors that they must be seen and felt by every reader, and I know nothing better calculated to prevent the frequent occurrence of these evils than their presentation in such a light. The author has succeeded admirably in his or her attempt to blend instruction with delight,' and the praiseworthy design cannot fail of being duly appreciated by a discerning Hudson, New York, Dec. 11, 1843.

To the Editor of the Rural Repository,

MR. EDITOR-Sir, I venture to send you a few remarks written after reading 'The Gipsy Mother; or the Miseries of Enforced Marriage, as given in your done, and yet continues to do, both at home and

The author of 'The Gipsy Mother' is to me unknown. This production partakes more of the char- short notice. acter of a romance than a common every day story or tale, and as such is full of scenes of startling interest; anxiety, horror, affection and fear. High life and low life, is here faithfully given in their most vivid colors. I think this production (now before me,) may (whoever is the Author) well compete with the so muc spoken of ' Mysteries of Paris,' and I have every reason to think it was written anterior to that famous work. Tyrrel is a perfectly finished character-a regular callous hearted monster of iniquity, but whose vileness, originating from avaricious motives, has a counterpart frequently met with in society, at the present period; mammon worship, or miserism, being often the occasion of unhappineas, cruelty and crime Such a character as Tyrrel cannot be too often presented before a discerning public, for avarice frequently swallows up with hydra mouth sentiment and virtue, which weigh but light in the balance when gold occupies the opposite scale! The portrait given in the description of the Delaney family contains Irish charunanimous last night, they might have pushed me out we find the false pretensions unto respectability; the "Fleas!" exclaimed Boniface, affecting under hand dealing of fraud; and the habitual want of common veracity, especially where money is the object to be attained, exactly as it is in every day existence, all faithfully and truly given.

The scene of this story is first laid in London, from can find at whence it is shortly transferred to Paris, where Den-"Why do you not pay that six and eight pence, Mr. zil, the hero of the tale finds his own (the Gipsy)

> Agnes du Rochier was the only daughter of one of the wealthiest merchants of Paris, and was admired by all the neighborhood for her beauty and virtue. In 1403 her father died, leaving her the sole possessor of his wealth, and rumor immediately disposed of her hand to all the young gallants of the quarter: but whether it was that grief for the loss of her parent had turned her head, or that the gloomy fanaticism of that time had worked with too fatal effect on her pure and inexperienced imagination, she took not only marriage and the male sex into utter abomination, but resolved to quit the world forever, and to make herself a perpetual prisoner for religion's sake. She determined, in short, to become what was then called a recluse, and as such to pass the remainder of her days in a parrow cell built within the wall of a church. Accordingly, when the cell, only a few feet square, was finished in the wall of the church of St. Opportune, Agnes entered her final abode, and the eremony of her reclusion began. The walls and pillars of the sacred edifice had been hung with tapestry and costly cloths, tapers burned on every ltar, the clergy of the capital and the several relirious communities thronged the church. The Bishop of Paris, attended by his chaplains and the cannons of Notre Dame, entered the choir, and celebrated a pontifical mass; he then approached the opening of the cell, sprinkled it with holy water, and after the poor thing had bidden adieu to her friends and relations, ordered the masons to fill up the aperture. This was done as strongly as stone and mortar could make it; nor was any opening left, save only a small loophole through which Agnes might hear the offices of the church, and receive the aliments given her by the charitable. She was eighteen years old when she entered this living tomb, and she continued within it eighty years, till death terminated her sufferings! Alas, for mistaken piety! Her wealth, which she gave to the church, and her own personal exertions during so long a life, might have made her a blessing to all that quarter of the city, instead of remaining

EARLY FASHIONS. Beards. The growth of beards was regulated by statute at Lincoln's Inn, in the time of Queen Elizabeth, when 'It was ordered that no fellow of that house should wear a beard of a fortnight's growth.' Transgression was punished with fine, loss of commons, and finally expulsion. No act of the reign of Peter the Great was so obnoxious as the tax he laid upon beards. This monarch ordained, that the noblemen, gentlemen, tradesmen, and artisans, (the priests and peasants excepted) should pay a hundred roubles to be able to retain their beards, that the lower classes should pay one copeck for the same liberty. The razor and the scissors were everywhere made use of, some carefully preserved the sad trimmings of their chins; and in order never to be separated from these favorite locks, ordered that they should be placed with them in their coffins.

LETTER FROM BOSTON.

Boston, Jan. 11, 1844. The Congressional intelligence from Washington the past week possesses very little interest. Instead of being two, there are evidently, three political parties in Congress; whig, Van Buren and Calhoun men. The friends of Mr. Van Buren have a clear majority over all. He considers the Retrenchment Law of 1843, as a violation of the Constitution, and strongly recommends the restoration of the Judges' salaries to the old standard previous to the retrenchment law of last winter. He also speaks rather ambiguously of party spirit, and alludes to the venerable Massachusetts claim on the general government. Gov. Briggs alludes to the views and opinions of the illustrious Jefferson with high veneration, for which the democratic party will thank him if the whigs do not. As an evidence of the Governor's democracy, I give you the g following passage from his address:

"Most of the practical business of the people of the State, relating to public affairs, is transacted by themselves in their town meetings. For all such purposes, every town is a pure, simple democracy. These democrasies are represented by men of their own choice in the Legislature of the State. This numerous representation in the popular branch, brings the representative into immediate contact with his constituents, keeps him under the check of a direct reponsibility, and, through him, carries among the mass of the people a familiar acquaintance with the affairs and workings of their government, unknown to other systems. A distinguished statesman in another part of the Union, pronounced this system the most perfect in the world, and expressed his regret that it could not be adopted in his own State. Here, it has justified the hopes of its patriotic founders, and all are cheered with the belief that their enlightened and liberty-loving descendants will make it perpetual,"

MINISTER TO MEXICO. The latest report is that Gen. Waddy Thompson, the late American Minister to Mexico, was not dismissed by Santa Ana, but resigns his office and comes home for the purpose of being attorney for certain American claimants. It is now rumored that Hon. Henry A. Wise, a Member of Congress from Virginia, will be the nominee for the mission to Mexico.

The rumors of an approaching rupture with Mexico are probably unfounded.

DIVIDEND. The Hingham Institution for Savings has declared the sum of $131,788 entitled to a dividend of two and a half per cent, for the last six months, and $10,135 to one and a quarter per cent. for three months.

DEATH OF AN EMINENT MERCHANT. Joseph I. Peabody, Esq. of Salem, one of the wealthiest merchants of New England, died last Friday night. He s was eighty-six years of age. It is said that he has left several millions of dollars.

DECLINATION. John G. Whittier, in a letter addressed to the Liberty Party in the Third Congressional District, declines any longer being the abolition candidate for Congress. GEN. ANDREW JACKSON. A letter from the Hermitage to the editor of the Columbus (Ohio,) Statesman, dated on Christmas day, represents General

Jackson to be enjoying excellent health. No DIVIDEND. The Hingham and Quincy Bridge and Turnpike Corporation declared no dividend for the past year, as we learn from the Hingham Patriot. This is the first time it has failed to. do so for a number of years.

RUMORED CONFESSION. The Providence (R.L.) Chronicle says that Rev. Ephraim K. Avery recently died, and before his death made a confession to by letter, of the whole Sarah Maria Cornell affair and other murders. Such is the rumor.

d Congress. We cannot discover any thing of interest to the general reader in the proceedings of " Congress for the last ten or fifteen days. The time is principally spent in disputes on questions of orges der and reception of petitions. A crisis seems to ra be approaching on the subject of slavery, and the rli- southern members make a stand on any order that may possibly lead to a discussion.

THE SPARK AT SEA.

Which glows 'mid darkness brilliantly ; But when the moon looks clear and bright, Emits a pale and feeble light; And when the tempest shakes the wave, It glimmers o'er the seaman's grave.

When oceans's storms roar wild and high, Most brightly we this light descry; Amid the billows' sparkling foam, Onward it sails to seek a home ; Despite the elemental war, The wave is its triumphal car.

Such friendship's beaming light appears, Through the long line of coming years; In sorrow's clouds it shines afar, A feeble but a constant star; And like that little spark at sea, urns brightest in adversity.

WOMAN. For roughest path, in darkest glooms, There is a star with bright, clear ray; There is a flower that ever blooms, And, like a rose tree 'mid the tombs, With beauty glads our way,

'Tis Woman sheds so fair a light Upon this weary pilgrimage; She is the flower whose beauty bright Fills youth with visious of delight, And gladdens sinking age.

In vain each thing may smile around, No joy can be where she is not; But, where her angel form is found, The wilderness is magic ground, The desert a most holy spot.

ANECDOTES.

A few years since, a young gentleman of Philadelphia, built a magnificent house, and furnished it in the most elegant manner with furniture imported from Paris; the chairs alone being invoiced at ninety dollars each. When his establishment was completed, he invited his father, a worthy old merchant, to visit him. The old gentleman, after making the tour of the house, exclaimed, "Ah! Robert, this is all very fine, but what is this inscription over the mantel piece?" "Inscription!" said the son, "I see no inscription."
"But I do," said the old gentleman, "and it reads thus—To be sold by the Sheriff in one year from date!" It is hardly necessary to inform our readers that the old gentleman's prediction was verified. In less than one year, master Robert was sold out by the Sheriff; his splendid establishment passing to a celebrated man-ufacturer of patent medicine, by whom it is still occu-pied.

A negro having purchased a hat, was observed to take it from his head on the fall of a shower of rain, and to manifest considerable alarm to preserve it from much experience and great success. the wet. Robert Merry's Museum, EDITED BY S. G. GOODRICH AUTHOR OF PETER PARLEY'S TALES.

Commencing January, 1844. THE publishers of this very popular Magazine for Youth, being anxious to be more fully entitled to the success which has attended their efforts, would announce to their patrons that they intend to make the forthcoming volume far more interesting than any of its predecessors. The Editorial department will still be under the management of S. G. Goodrich, Esq., the highly popular author of Peter Parley's Tales, whose fame as one of the most fascinating writers for youth is too extensively diffused to need further comment. A variety of new and pleasing articles are now ready, and will appear in this volume, not inferior in interest to the "Travels of Thomas Trotter,' the "Siberian Sable Hunters," "Story of Philip Brusque," " Adventures of Robert Merry," and others which have been finished in the preceding volumes. Every article will be thoroughly digested before it is admitted into this work, and great care will be taken that it shall not contain any thing inconsistent with morality and virtue. Commencing in January, we shall also introduce a piece of music in every number. We have also in progress a variety of new and striking Engravings, designed by Mr. H. Billings, for this work exclusively. In short, the publishers are deter-mined to make this Magazine as good as talent, care, attention and liberal expense, can make it, and they respectfully ask ALL Mr. Robert Merry's friends to give them their kind support and encouragement. The terms of the Museum will continue as before, viz: ONE DOLLAR PER ANNUM, IN ADVANCE.

In order, however, to give all an opportunity to pe- her remnants of last season ribbon much below cost. ruse Mr. Merry's work, the publishers propose to make the following GREAT INDUCEMENTS TO CLURS.

Vegetable Indian Arcanum, FOR THE CURE OF

Consumption and Liver Complaint, Inflammation of the Lungs and Spitting of Blood, Scrofula, Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Rheumatism, Gout, Obstinate Cutaneous Eruptions, Pimples or Pustules on the Face, Female Weakness, Jaundice, Piles, Imprudence in Life, Enlargement and Pain in the Bones, and Diseases arising from an injudicious use of Mercury. The complexion is greatly improved by this medicine. THIS is a preparation which Dr. Fernands, who is an Indian of the Cherokee nation, has used with great success in the above complaints, practising as he has for many years as an Indian doctor among several tribes. Dr. Fernands, who prepares this medicine, does not contend that it will cure all the diseases which the human system is liable to experience, but feels safe in assuring the public that when it has been taken according to his directions, it has never failed, in any of the complaints abovementioned, of effecting a speedy and effectual cure. This medicine is entirely of a vegetable nature, being a compound of roots and herbs collected by Dr. Fernands himself; consequently it is a preparation which may be taken by those of the most delicate constitutions, or even a small child, without the least fear as to its results upon the system. One bottle will convince the incredulous invalid that no more has been said in its favor than its virtues safely warrant. Many respectable physicians have used, and even prescribed, this valuable medicine.

To prevent imposition, each bill of directions accompanying the medicine will be signed by J. K. Fernands, in his own hand writing, and also by his only authorized Agent for the New England States. J K. FERNANDS, Indian Physician

TEMPERANCE.

On the evening of the 23d inst., at half past six o'clock, a star of the first magnitude will be observed at the Town Hall in this village, and with brightest effulgence shed its light on the noble and philanthropic cause of temperance. This star, whose influence operating upon the mind of man, has been the wonder and admiration of thousands of its fellows, is John N. SALE OF OLD BACHELORS I dream'd a dream, in the midst of my slumbers, And as fast as I dreamt, it was coined into numbers-My thoughts ran along in such beautiful metre, I'm sure I ne'er saw any poetry sweeter. It seemed that a law had been recently made, That a tax on old bachelors' pates should be laid; And, in order to make them all willing to marry, The tax was as large as a man could well carry. The bachelors grumbled and said twere no use. 'Twas horrid injustice and horrid abuse : And declared that to save their own heart's blood from spilling,

Of such a vile tax they would not pay a shilling. But the rulers determined their skill to pursue, So they sat all the bachelors up at vendue; A crier was sent through the town to and fro, To rattle his bell, and his trumpet to blow; And to call out to all he might meet in his way, " Ho! forty old bachelors sold here to-day." And presently all the old maids of the town, Each one in her very best bonnet and gown, From thirty to sixty, fair, plain, red, and pale, Of every description, all flocked to the sale. The auctioneer then, in his labor began, And call'd out aloud, as he held up a man, ' How much for a bachelor ?-who wants to buy ?' In a twink every maiden responded 'I-I.' In short, at a hugely extravagant price, The bachelors all were sold off in a trice : And forty old maidens-some younger, some older, Each lugged an old bachelor home on her shoulder.

A NEW VOLUME OF Robert Merry's Museum, EDITED BY S. G. GOODRICH, AUTHOR OF PETER PARLEY'S TALES.

Commencing January, 1844. THE publishers of this very popular Magazine for Youth, being anxious to be more fully entitled to the success which has attended their efforts, would announce to their patrons that they intend to make the forthcoming volume far more interesting than any of its predecessors. The Editorial department wil still be under the management of S. G. Goodrich, Esq., the highly popular author of Peter Parley's Tales, whose fame as one of the most fascinating writers for youth is too extensively diffused to need further comment. A variety of new and pleasing articles are now ready, and will appear in this volume, not inferior in interest to the "Travels of Thomas Trotter," the "Siberian Sable Hunters," "Story of Philip Brusque," "Adventures of Robert Merry," and others which have been finished in the preceding volumes. Every article will be thoroughly digested before it is admitted into this work, and great care will be taken that it shall not contain any thing inconsistent with morality and virtue. Commencing in January, we shall also introduce a piece of music in every number. We have also in progress a variety of new and striking Engravings, designed by Mr. H. Billings, for this work exclusively. In short, the publishers are deter-mined to make this Magazine as good as talent, care, attention and liberal expense, can make it, and they respectfully ask ALL Mr. Robert Merry's friends to give them their kind support and encouragement. The terms of the Museum will continue as before, viz

Jingle! jingle! fast it flies, Sending shafts from hooded eyes, Roguish archers, I'll be bound, Little heeding who they wound, See them with capricious pranks, Ploughing now the drifted banks-Jingle! jingle! 'mid their glee, Who among them cares for me?

Jingle ! jingle ! on they go, Caps and bonnets white with snow, At the faces swimming past, Nodding thro' the fleecy blast; Not a single robe they fold, To protect them from the cold : Jingle ! jingle ! 'mid the storm, Fun and frolic keep them warm.

Jingle! jingle! down the hills-O'er the meadows-past the mills-Now 'tis slow, and now 'tis fast-Winter will not always last. Every pleasure has its time! Spring will come and stop the chime ! Jingle ! jingle !-clear the way, 'Tis the merry, merry sleigh!

THE FARMER. A farmer's life is the life for me, I own I love it dearly ; And every season full of glee, I take its labors cheerly-To plough or sow,

To reep or mow, Or in the barn to thrash, sir-All's one to me, I plainly see 'Twill bring me health and cash, sir.

A farmer's life then let me live, Obtaining while I lead it, Enough for self, and some to give To such poor souls that need it. I'll drill and fence, Nor grudge expense, To give the land good dressing-

I'll plough or sow, Or drill in row, And hope from heaven a blessing.

WINTER. The spirit of Winter arose in the air, With shivering limbs all naked and bare, Born in the depths of an Iceland cave, Cradled and nursed on a stormy wave, He slumbered a season, and then came forth, His steeds were the bitterest winds of the north; A frozen cloud was his whirling car; His reicle teeth did rattle and shake. Like a hurling stone on a frozen lake, Or the clattering bones of a gibbetted form, That is driven about by the merciless storm ; His long skinny arms he waved in the breeze. And stripp'd of their verdore the plants and the trees, Wherever he snorted his withering breath, All delicate beings crumbled in death !

Commencing January, 1844. THE publishers of this very popular Magazine for Youth, being anxious to be more fully entitled to the success which has attended their efforts, would announce to their patrons that they intend to make the forthcoming volume far more interesting than any of its predecessors. The Editorial department will still be under the management of S. G. Goodrich, Esq., the highly popular author of Peter Parley's Tales, whose fame as one of the most fascinating writers for youth is too extensively diffused to need further comment. A variety of new and pleasing articles are now ready, and will appear in this volume, not inferior in interest to the "Travels of Thomas Trotter," the "Siberian Sable Hunters," "Story of Philip Brusque," "Adventures of Robert Merry," and others give him a chance for trial. which have been finished in the preceding volumes. Every article will be thoroughly digested before it is admitted into this work, and great care will be taken that it shall not contain any thing inconsistent with morality and virtue. Commencing in January, we shall also introduce a piece of music in every number. We have also in progress a variety of new and striking Engravings, designed by Mr. H. Billings, for this work exclusively. In short, the publishers are determined to make this Magazine as good as talent, care, attention and liberal expense, can make it, and they respectfully ask ALL Mr. Robert Merry's friends to 6 1-4 to 25 cts per yard

The terms of the Museum will continue as before, viz: to 10 cts. per yard. ONE DOLLAR PER ANNUM, IN ADVANCE. In order, however, to give all an opportunity to peruse Mr. Merry's work, the publishers propose to their interest to call. make the following

Ye sinews of a state. Your nation's pride and boast, Whose glory crowns her hills, And guards your native coast, Ye are her wealth in peace, Her vital breath ye are; And when the bolts of death are hurl'd Ye are her shield in war !

By the eternal sword, To stern browed Justice given By Freedom's holy self, The might of wrong is riven! Strong monument arise, In record of your praise, Transmitting down your names, To men of other days-

Proclaim to all the world Your usefulness and worth, Speak out with trumpet tongue, Ye mighty men of earth ! Was not the soil you tread Won by your fathers' blood? Then on Oppression's self Roll back oppression's flood ! Seize with a determined band The standard sheet of right, And let not even death Turn your resolve to flight. By Him who gave to man The soul's eternal fire, That glorious day is now-Our motto, onward-higher.

THE GRADUAL SCALE. A sparrow caught upon a tree, A fly, so fat, his taste grew stonger; His victim struggling to get free,

Begged but to live a little longer; The murderer answered-"Thou must fall, For I am great and thou art small."

A hawk beheld him at his feast, And in a moment pounced upon him, The dying sparrow wished at least, To know what injury he had done him; The murderer answered-" Thou must fall, For I am great and thou art small."

The eagle saw the hawk below, And quickly on the goormand seizes-"Oh, noble king! pray let me go! Mercy ; thou peckest me to pieces." The murderer answered-" Thou must fall, For I am great and thou art small."

He feasted, lo! an arrow flew. And pierced the eagle's bosom through. Unto the hunter, loud screamed be, "Oh, tyrant, wherefore, murder me !" "Ah!" said the murderer, "thou must fall, For I am great and thou art small.'

A LITTLE SODL. All men have spuls; but some are small indeed-Not larger than a small brass pin's small head, If we must judge of them by outward acts; For, reader, I could give a score of facts That prove the soul of some so zery small, You'll say they might as well have none at all.

I've seen a wretch creep softly through the door Of his sick neighbor, not to ask his state, Who, racked with burning pains, has scarce the power To lift his head, pale, trembling for his fate. But, while all eyes, save his with tears were wet. Approach the bed, and dun the man for debt.

Now just put such a soul Within a small pipe bowl, And with your thumb the open space defend; In vain is all your care, You cannot keep it there ; 'Twill make a turnpike of the little end !"

THE QUAKER AND HIGHWAYMAN.

Toby Simpton, a pattern to Quakers, inhabited a neat little house in London, beautified by the presence of his daughter Mary. She, scarcely seventeen, a beautiful blonde, with blue eyes, and possessing as much wisdom as beauty, was sought after by all the young men among her father's acquaintance. Those of the neighborhood tried in vain to win a smile. Mary was not a coquette, and so far from turnshe could hardly treat with civility her many when I first met the rascal, and certainly he you to give your son a marriage portion, which then said, "If there is no hope, I will at least for it to their chamber. admirers—one only excepted—Edward Weres- would never have overtaken me with his had it not been for that, I should never have die like a man." It was there that Edward to strengthen the bond formed under such cir- a sudden idea, he stopped short: cumstances, and the young man had already ventured to declare his hopes and desires.

Toby had no reasons for opposing the inclinations of the young people. Without being rich, Edward earned, by means of his brush and pallette, enough to honorably maintain a family. His father, Mr. Weresford, an old city merchant, had retired with an immense fortune; a rare example of repeated successes in speculations, so rapid even, that very few persons had been able to follow their progress. Mr. Weresford being of a quick, stern disposition, lived alone, in the West end of London, without troubling himself about his son, and leaving him to shift for himself. He was one of those obliging egotists who troubled no one, in order not to be themselves troubled-one of the most perfectly complaisant, provided nothing is asked of them. Edward then had nothing to hinder his courtship of the fair Quakeress, knowing well that her father would not oppose her marriage. The situation of the lovers was most prosperous, and honest Toby set apart that income to defray the expenses of that occasion. With this view he left his country seat, a few miles from London, in order to arrange his affairs. He was absent from home but a single day, and returning at night on horseback, he perceived a little in advance a horseman who blocked up the road. He stopped for a moment, uncertain whether to proceed or turn back. While in this predicament the stranger advanced towards him. It was too late to think of escaping, and putting the best possible face on the matter, he started his horse again. As he approached the troublesome stranger, he perceived that he was masked, an unpleasant augury of what was soon confirmed. The unknown drew a pistol, and pointing it at the traveller, demanded his purse. The Quaker was not a coward, but calm in character, unoffensive in religion, and unable, unarmed, to resist an armed man, he drew from his pocket, with the greatest coolness, his purse, containing twelve guineas. The highwayman took it, counted out the money, and let the Quaker pass, who, believing himself cleared, quickened his pace to a trot. But the highwayman, seeing how little resistance had been offered, and hoping for more booty, soon the way, and pointing his pistol, cried out my thief?

For the Quincy Patriot. "JACK FROST." Hallo! come back again, Jack Frost? I really thought that you was lost; Old Winter, with December, came, Why should not you have done the same? You are his servant boy, you know, Excuse me, if it be not so.

Now, master Jack, I wish to ask, Concerning your appointed task Of scrawling on the window glass, Of all the streets through which you pass What meaning would you thus convey? Personify thyself and say.

" My office, simply is to tell (Thermometers can do as well) How much, or little, to prepare, Ere going forth in open air; Or whether one need be afraid, To rise and find no fire made.

When for this purpose I appear, No place, like home, affordeth cheer-I tip dame Charity the wink, And bid her of her duty think-Build 'castles in the air' to please The little ones who else might tease.

Hold! yonder cloud reveals the sun, Now shiver, quick, for I must run." Ugh! call again, I joy to find A friend like you, so very kind. Albeit, (think me not too bold.) I wish your manners were less cold. Boston, Feb. 3d, 1844.

From the Boston Trumpet. THE ROSE THAT ALL ARE PRAISING. The rose that all are praising is not the rose for me, Its beauty fades as quickly as sunshine on the sea; But there 's a rose in Zion's bower-The Rose of Sharon, sweetest flower-Blooms on th' immortal tree:

Oh! that 's the rose for me. The love of worldly pleasure is not the love for me, The soul needs richer treasures; we find them Lord All low enjoyments I resign, My soul is fill'd with love divine-Love-endless, boundless, free; Oh! that 's the love for me.

The crown that worldlings covet is not the crown for me;

Though princes now may wear it-at last 'twill worth- give him a chance to substantiate it less be.

But there 's a crown for christian strife-A fadeless crown-the crown of life-Bright through eternity : Oh! that 's the crown for me.

The hope of earthly glory is not the hope for me; To live in song and story, what better should I be ? But there 's a hope of endless bliss, The hope to dwell where Jesus is, From sin and sorrow free: Oh! that 's the hope for me.

GIVE A TRIFLE.

It is a trifle-give a mill To help the poor along; 'Tis not the amount-it is the will That makes the virtue strong.

"I have but little," never say, "Twill not avail to give," A penny if you give to-day Will make the dying live.

It is the spirit -- not the gold Upon the waters cast-That will return a hundred fold, To cheer and blest at last.

Then give a trifle cheerfully, From out thy little store; With interest it will come to thee, When thou wilt need it more.

TRUE MODESTY. As lamps burn silent with unconscious light, So modest ease in beauty shines most bright, Unaiming charms with edge resistless fall, And she who means no mischief does it all.

AN EXAMPLE FOR WIV

In the year 18-, and the month of A the following marriage might be found in umn of our daily papers: "On the 18th by Rev. Philip M-, D. D., William G to Maria Sheldon." Maria had made wh world would call a good match. Her h was an honest, industrious tradesman, w gaged in a lucrative business, and had enough to support her respectably. A house was furnished for their reception they took possession with feelings under alone by those who marry for pure disinter affection. Affairs glided on smoothly; he was atter to his business, and she did all in her pomake his home a cheerful one. After time, one night at ten o'clock, found her ing his return; this was unusual. Fo first time since their marriage, was he o that hour. She tried to while away the ted moments in numerous ways, hoping that one would be the last spent in solitude. length he came-a political meeting he detained him longer than he expected, number of addresses had been delivered by inent men, and he had become interested had forgotten how slowly the hours passe her with whom he had been in the hab passing all his leisure moments. Excus him with a smile, she answered, "I should have complained of feeling weary on this y first absence, but you have been so much me, that I have become selfish. Dear Will you must blame your previous attentions my fault." "Do not call it a fault, Maria; it does need even as much as you have said; you ! uttered no complaint; it is from those tell eyes that I have learned how lonely you h been;" as he spoke he fondly gazed upon beautiful features of his wife, that upon his e trance had lost their heaviness, and spark with double brilliancy; he loved her with much truth and fervor as ever warmed heart of the fondest husband, and he resolve that excepting those hours devoted to busine none should be passed from her side. I alas! for man's resolution! the first step ha been taken; the second was not difficult. At that time there was a great political citement, and the meetings, as is generally case, were held at taverns. William, though not a warm politician, was young, and like eve older persons, believing his candidate the on above all capable of filling the office sought with credit to the State, he imbibed the view of his associates, and if not as conspicuous, was as anxiously watched as those who had been foremost in the ranks. Ten o'clock now found him at home as seldom, as formerly away from it. Maria attributed it all to the meetings, that she knew he was constantly attending, and therefore uttered no murmur.

It grieved her to see him return sometimes with a flushed cheek and unsteady step; she did not give vent to her uneasiness, and only trusted when the election was over, he would forsake all that grieved her so much, and return again to his former conduct. She was willing, as ever woman is, to look forward to a bright and beautiful future. She knew that all who live have cloud as well as sunshine to encounter, and thought the present one would soon pass away, and leave her a horizon as serene and calm as the days she looked back upon as her morning light. At the meeting where William might always be found, there was a party of young men, near his own age, possessing pleasing address and manners; they made it a business to attach themselves to all new comers by inviting them to drink to their better acquaintance, and thus gently lead them into the worst of vices. They knew that William was in good business; and to him they professed the warmest friendship. They made up

For the Quincy Patriot. ODE TO INNOCENCE. Innocence ! heaven born solace of the mind, In thee substantial joy and virtue meet; In thy absence what pleasure can we find That will with thee, blest attribute, compete Say, where among the votaries of vice, Shall we look for happiness so divine? Say, will the gambler's play at cards or dice, And ill got gain, give happiness like thine?

Contrast a life of wickedness and crime, And conscious guilt, agony and despair, With innocense and purity sublime; Then ask, will these first with the last compare

Reason and experience answer no; It can't afford us joy serene as thine, But gives only misery, pain and woe; Then let thy joys, oh innocence ! be mine.

THE FIRM BANK. Supposed to have been written by Rev. Rowland Hill, at a time when public credit in Great Britain was shaken by the failure of several Banks.

> I have a never failing Bank, A more than Golden Store ; No earthly Bank is half so rich, How can I then be poor?

'Tis when my stock is spent and gone, And I without a groat, I'm glad to hasten to my Bank, And beg a little note.

Sometimes my Banker smiling says, "Why don't you oftener come? And when you draw a little note, Why not a larger sum?

"Why live so niggardly and poor, Your bank contains a plenty; Why come and take a one pound note, When you might have a twenty?

"Yea twenty thousand ten times told, Is but a trifling sum, To what your father has laid up, Secure in God his Son.'

Since then my banker is so rich. I have no cause to borrow, I'll live upon my cash to-day, And draw again to-morrow.

I've been a thousand times before, And never was rejected, Sometimes my Banker gives me more, Than asked for or expected.

Sometimes I've felt a little proud, I've managed things so clever But ah ! before the day was gone, I've felt as poor as ever.

Sometimes with blushes in my face ! Just at the door I stand : I know if Moses keep me back, I surely will be damned.

I know my bank will never break-No, it can never fail, The firm-three persons in one God, Jehovah-Lord of all.

Should all the Banks of Britain break, The Bank of England smash-Bring in your Notes to Zion's Bank, You'll surely get your cash,

And if you have but one small note. Fear not to bring it in ; Come boldly to the Bank of Grace-

The Banker is within. All forged notes will be refused. Man's merits are rejected;

There's not a single note will pass, That God has not accepted.

"Tis only those beloved by God, Redeemed by precious blood. That ever had a note to bring-These are the gifts of God,

Tho' thousand ransomed souls may say, They have no notes at all-Because they feel the plagues of sin, So ruined by the fall-

The Bank is full of precious notes All signed and seal'd and free, Though many doubting souls may say, There is not one for me.

Base unbelief will lead the child To say what is not true ; I tell the soul that feels self-lost, These notes belong to you.

The leper had a little note-"Lord, if thou wilt, thou can," The Banker cash'd that little note, And heal'd the sickly man.

We read of one young man, indeed, Whose riches did abound : But in the Banker's book of Grace, This man was never found.

But see the wretched, dying thief, Hang by the Banker's side, He cried, " dear Lord remember me." And got his cash-and died.

DR. BUTLER deems it prudent to remark, as quackery Empiricism, and the grossest imposition prevails to a great extent in this community, that he is properly qualified in his profession; and that he has seen more practice, and really cured more patients of various and complicated diseases, than has fallen to the lot of many practitioners.

Dr. Butler's practice is not confined to any peculiar class of diseases as many may perhaps infer, from the general tenor of a certain class of advertisers, who have nearly exhausted the vocabulary of billingsgate, in the fulsome description of their infallible specifics, and multifarious compounds, for the immediate cure of one disease.

Dr. Butler treats all diseases that flesh is heir to, in the most approved and scientific manner; and from his long experience and extensive practice, he is enabled to give satisfaction to all who see fit to honor

"Don't mention it," said the Captain, " I could not think of taking any thing of you." "I have it," said the southerner, "come with me.

The trio adjourned to the clerk's office, where a stirring appeal for aid to Texas was written. The southern gentleman carried it among the passengers, and collected one hundred and fifty dollars, which was handed over to the Texas Major. At night a grand supper was given, at which speeches were made and toasts were drank. The cabin was decorated with the star-Underwood, Ebenezer Whiting, George S. About twelve o'clock the company commenced singing songs, and the Major was called upon to favor the company with a song. He complied by " favoring the company" with his famous song of "Billy Barlow,"

" Bravo!" said one. " Excellent !" said another.

" Capital !" said a third.

"I could do it a --- sight better," said Jim, who was fast verging into the fourth stage of intoxication, "if I had the proper togs on." After giving three faint huzzas for Texas, the party broke up.

Next morning the clerk went into the Major's state room to call him to breakfast. Imagine his surprise when he discovered that the Major had actually turned in all standing-with boots, chapeau and sword on, the feet snugly laid on the pillow. He was a Texas Major, and of course no fault was found.

> Hon. JOSIAH STEDMAN, Quincy, Nov. 11.

It maketh poverty content, To sorrow whispers peace ; It is a gift from heaven sent For mortals to increase. It meets you with a smile at morn; It lulls you to repose ; A flower of peer and peasant born, An everlasting rose.

A charm to banish grief away, To snatch the crown from care; Turns tears to smiles, makes dullness gay, Spread gladness every where ; And yet 'tis cheap as summer dew, That gems the lily's breast, A talisman for love, as true As ever man possess'd.

As smiles the rainbow through the cloud When threat'ning storm begins-As music 'mid the tempest loud, That still its sweet way wins-As springs an arch across the tide, Where waves conflicting foam, So comes this seraph to our side. This angel of our home.

What may this wondrous spirit be, With power unheard before-This charm-this bright divinity ? Good temper-nothing more ! Good temper -- 'tis the choicest gift That woman homeward brings; And can the poorest peasant lift To bliss unknown to kings.

GAMBLING. Shun! Freemen, shun the tempting lure That beckons you to sin; That seems without so bright and pure, But yet so black within.

Let not the monster thus be fed Within our happy land; Where heaven its bounteousness has spread With free and liberal hand.

Spurn! spurn the ignominious stealth, The road to vice and shame; Be industry our guide to wealth, To bonor and to fame.

Let not the rankling serpent thus Twine round our budding tree; Let not oppression weave for us A chain of misery.

Let honest means our thoughts employ To reap but what we sow; Nor build our hopes of future joy Upon our brother's woe.

Shun! Freemen, shun the treacherous game, Nor venture to your cost, While honor is your proudest name, And Liberty your boast.

> LOVE. Tell me, my heart, what love is? It giveth but to rob; Two souls and one idea, Two hearts and but one throb.

And tell me, how love cometh? It comes,-and ah, 'tis here. And whither, pray, it fleeth? 'Twas not ;- 'twas fancy mere.

And when is love the purest? When its own self it shuns. And is love the deepest? When love the stillest runs.

And when is love the richest? It hoardeth when it gives. And, tell me, how love speaketh? It speaketh not ;-it lives.

ANECDOTES.

' Mamma,' exclaimed a beautiful girl, who had suffered affectation to obscure the little intellect she possessed, 'what is that long green thing lying on the dish before you?'

A cucumber, my beloved Georgiana,' replied the mamma, with a bland smile of approbation at her darling's commendable curiosity.

A cucumber! gracious goodness, my dear mamma. how very extraordinary ! I always imagined, until this moment, that they grew in slices!'

The slumbers of an Irish gentleman being disturbed by the call of another gentleman who had come to administer a horsewhipping, he asked him whether he meant to be so unmannerly as to flog him while in bed. Certainly not,' was the visitor's reply. 'Well then,' rejoined the other, quietly rolling himself up very snugly in the bed clothes, 'you may wait as long as you please, but hang me if I'll get up while you're in Fire. Yesterday afternoon, at about half past four o'clock, a fire broke out in a large dwelling house in this town, occupied by Mr. Ezra Walker, and owned by Mrs. Hannah Miller of Boston, which 972,99 was entirely destroyed. It is supposed that the fire originated from the accidental burning of one of the chimnies.

Engines were soon in attendance from Milton and Dorchester, and also the Hook and Ladder Company from the Rai Iway Village, the Captain of which, Henry West, was considerably injured in the face by the breaking of the chain attached to the fire-hook while in the act of pulling the building to House Breaking. The summer residence of 167,35 Hon. Charles F. Adams, in this town, was forcibly entered at one o'clock, yesterday morning, by a rogue who was found in the cellar of the house at about twelve o'clock of the same day. Appearances $65,93 indicated that he felt secure, and had been leisureand to the Over- ly engaged in an examination of the premises. ow have about an ond, It will serve Probably, he had previously entered the house and had become rather "at home." The persons who take care of the house went to see that all things were right, when they discovered that it had been 16,77 entered, and ere long found the rogue, whose name ying same, 33,23 is Samuel Vining. 50,00

More Trials. Minott Thayer, of the Hotel at 972.99 Milton Mills, was tried before Justin Spear, Esq. 167,35 on Friday last, for violating the license law, and 65,93 eight of the ten complaints sustained.

451,74 Two or three complaints were sustained, on 1757,84 Mondey last, against Otis Wright of the Neponset Hotel, for similar offences, and the remaining cases will be tried to-day.

ACCIDENT. As Messrs. William B. Duggan of 10 08 this town, and William A. Gilbert of Dorchester, '43 $20 45 25 were returning from Dedham, on Saturday last, in 46 00 a buggy, when near Sumner's Mills in Dorchester, 83 00 the forward axletree separated from the body of the 15 00 carriage, and both were precipitated out with great do 3 04 9 76 violence on the frozen ground. HOUSE PAINTING;

HON. JOHN QUINCY ADAMS By a colored Virginian Poct. Star of the East! our country's pride-Our heart-strings cling to thee ! For wisdom's light, our steps to guide, In the pathway of the free.

And lives an ape and dies-a fool.

Like lost men on the trackless sea, We grope in wan despair, Yet forlorn hope still points to thee, Our country's polar star.

Oh! pierce that more than midnight gloom Which palls our bright career, Which warns us of the fate of Rome,

And thrills our souls with fear. Lift up thy voice in Freedom's cause! God, thee in mercy sent,

To teach us liberty and law-Thou "old man eloquent !" God nerve thy frame and tongue to fight Our battles o er again-

To rend oppression from our sight, And our escutcheon's stain. Wake! with a trumpet-tongue, thou sage, Our guilty statesmen up!

Bid them a glorious battle wage 'Gain'st slavery's "bitter cup,' Which the poor, doomed, and hapless slave,

In christian States doth drain; While the sad tear his eyelids lave, And speak his untold pain.

God of heaven! in thunder tones, Thy warning message send ! Sweep from the world the bondman's groans, And the slave's shackles rend!

Star of the East! our country's pride-Our heart-strings cleave to thee ! For wisdom's light, our steps to guide, In the pathway of the free.

RICH AND POOR. Few, save the poor, feel for the poor;

The rich know not how hard It is to be of needful food And needful rest debarred.

Their paths are paths of plenteousness. They sleep on silks and down; And never think how heavily The weary head lies down.

They know not of the scanty meal, With small, pale faces round; No fire upon the cold, damp hearth, When snow is on the ground.

They never by the window lean, And see the gay pass by; Then take their weary task again, But with a sadder eye.

ANECDOTES.

A humming bird once met a butterfly, and being pleased with the beauty of its person and glory of its wings, made an offer of perpetual friendship. "I cannot think of it," was the reply, "as you once spurned me and called me a drawling dolt." "Impossible!" exclaimed the humming-bird. "I always entertained the highest respect for such beautiful creatures as you.' "Perhaps you do now," said the other, "but when you insulted me I was a caterpillar. So let me give you this piece of advice-never insult the humble, as they may one day become your superior."

A collector of church rates, in England, called upon a Quaker, who kept a dry goods store, for the usual sum. The latter said-" friend, is it right that I should pay when I never attend the established church?" "The church is open to all," answered the collector, and you might have attended if you felt so inclined." The Quaker paid the money, and on the next day sent the collector a bill for broadcloth. The man came in: mediately, and in a great passion asked the meaning of it; declaring that he never had a single article from MEDICAL and SURGICAL profession, and respecthis store. "Oh!" said the Quaker, rubbing his hands, the store was open for thee, and thou mightest have had the cloth if thou hadst a mind !"

"I can't imagine," said an alderman, "why my whiskers should grow grey so much faster than the hair on my head." "Because," observed a wag in reply, "you have worked much harder with your jaws than your brains."

"Did you ever go to a military ball?" asked a lisping maid of an old veteran of Gen. Jackson's army of '15. "No, my dear," growled the old soldier. "In d'ye think, it took my leg off."

"I keep an excellent table," said a landlady disputing with one of her boarders. "That may be true, ma'am," says he, "but you put very little upon it."

"Job was a very patient man," exclaimed a termigant wife to her husband. "He must have been a bachelor, then," was the response.

"My dear sir, you are dying by inches," said a phy- fect FIT are invariably warranted. sician to a seven foot countryman. "If that's all, I am long enough for this world!"

DR. BUTLER deems it prudent to remark, as quackery Empiricism, and the grossest imposition PAPERING & GLAZING prevails to a great extent in this community, that he is properly qualified in his profession; and that he has seen more practice, and really cured more patients of various and complicated diseases, than has fallen to the lot of many practitioners.

Medical aid in Boston.

Dr. Butler's practice is not confined to any peculiar class of diseases as many may perhaps infer, from the general tenor of a certain class of advertisers, who have nearly exhausted the vocabulary of billingsgate, in the fulsome description of their infallible specifics, and multifarious compounds, for the immediate cure of one disease.

Dr. Butler treats all diseases that flesh is heir to, in the most approved and scientific manner; and from his long experience and extensive practice, he is enabled to give satisfaction to all who see fit to honor him with their confidence.

His office is arranged for the convenience of both sex, so that there can be no hesitancy in calling. ADJES AND GENTLEMEN in want of UN-BLEACHED SHEETINGS AND SHIRTINGS Please observe, No. 4 Brattle Square, opposite the Church, in the rear of the Broker's Office. Entrance

For the Quincy Patrlot. JONATHAN'S FIRST VISIT TO THE THEATRE.

I must confess myself one of them who re gard Friday as an unlucky day-indeed the fact of my being born on that day, were it no for another, namely, that Ben Franklin also came into existence on Friday, would deprive me of all hope forever. If you please, I will relate one of the events which cause such an unfortunate opinion of the fifth day of the week.

It happened on Friday afternoon, as I was strolling through Tremont Street, that my attention was arrested by a large crowd of peo ple at the entrance of the Theatre. While about crossing over to indulge curiosity concerning it, a saucy looking brat stepped up, and laying one hand on the skirt of my coat and reaching the other towards my face, inquired if I wanted a ticket. Before answer could be given him, he was joined by a dozen or two more, (like geniuses to himself,) who discovering there was some chance to trade, becan as active and noisy, as if around a house or fire. SCHOOL COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

The School Committee of the Town of Quincy, who have had the general oversight of the several has just closed, would respectfully report:

The Primary School in the Centre District, kept by Miss Burbank, appears as well, the Committee suppose, as could be expected, when the large number of scholars is considered, in connexion with the your Committee would remark, in this connexion, adjournment to Tuesday, the proceedings of which that the accommodations of the three schools in the Centre District are much inferior to what are enjoyed by the other Districts in Town. They need more room, a want which will be provided for as soon as the Town shall be ready to give up the whole of the present Town Hall to the use of the Schools.

The three schools in the South District, the principal kept by Mr. Seaver, the Middle by Miss Olive Seaver, and the Primary by Mrs. Veazie, seem to be entire satisfaction to your Committee.

In the West District there are but two schools, the principal, kept by Mr. Cummings,-which has continued to improve, in a gratifying manner, since it has been under the care of the present faithful instructor,—and the Primary School, kept by Miss Nightingale. Both of these schools are quite large, Mr. Cummings having on his list over one hundred different scholars, and in the Primary there are upwards of seventy. In this District there is no intermediate school. Your committee think, that in the course of the next year, it will deserve to be considered whether the interests of the District will not be promoted by separating the oldest scholars in the Primary, and the youngest in the principal schools, and forming them into a middle school, to be under the care of a female teacher.

The principal school at the Point, kept by Mr. Edwards, has given proofs of considerable improvement in some of the branches taught. The Primary School, kept by Miss Spear, has appeared very

The school at Germantown is a small one. It was kept through the summer by Miss Brown, and during the winter months by Mr. Atwood. It has been a pleasant school to visit, and your Committee are happy to be able to speak with confidence of the progress that has been made in this school in the course of the past year.

The Committee are sorry to be obliged to conclude this report, by saying, that, in their opinion, the school in the North District is more backward than any in Town. The Committee do not undertake to account for this state of things, and far less comb 1; Elisha Torner 1; Francis Williams 1; are they desirous of casting blame upon any; but Elijah Baxter 2; John Simpson 1; Thomas White they cannot think they have discharged their whole duty until they have mentioned the fact and called to it the attention of those who are competent to it the attention of those who are competent to presents a great want of neatness and cleanliness, the seats and walls are marked and otherwise defaced, and there is a listlessness and want of interest and ambition, on the part of the scholars, which the inhabitants of that Distrct must desire earnestly to correct. The Committee are of opinion, that, if it were practicable to have a school kept through the year, by one and the same person, thus removing the necessity for frequent change of teachers. it would prove a great advantage to the District. All which is respectfully submitted in behalf of

THE PRESIDENCY.

In my last, I spoke of the qualifications which Mr. Van Buren possesses in himself for the Chief Magistrate of the nation, and of the manner in which he was discarded from that high trust in 1840.

The very principles and measures devised and executed by Andrew Jackson and by his successD. C. Blake 1; Jabez Bigelow 1. or, Martin Van Buren, (so long as he possessed the reins of government,) have now been in operation for the last three years; that is, since Mr. Tyler has been in the Presidential Chair; and what is the present condition of the business matters of the country? Were they ever in a more healthy state? True, there is not that mad fever for speculation which there once was, when a national Bank was in full operation, but there is a regular prosperity attending the business of the land. And what has produced it? Surely, not a National Bank, upon the existence of which, in the hard cider campaign of 1840, the federal whigs based the only hope of a John Crane 1; L. G. Horton 1; George Jones 1 prosperous existence of busines men, yea, almost their very being itself. Now, where is the most rab- Newcomb 1; James Lovell 1. id whig among them who would dare openly to advocate the necessity, or expediency even, of such a national Institution? And why? Because everybody now knows, by a fair experiment, under the administration of Mr. Tyler, (who the whigs themselves will acknowledge has vetoed, to their full satisfaction all their darling measures,) that the mation is a thousand times better off now, than it could have been with a national Bank.

It is then, but just and right to Mr. Van Buren that he should be again placed in the chair of the Ensign S. Fellows 1. nation that he may carry forward in his own way those good plans for our nation's prosperity, which Mr. Tyler has been able to do only partially, on account of the federal influence from which he has been unable entirely to free himself. It is required as a debt to be paid to the nation, also, and as a triumph of principle, which was so shamefully sacrificed in 1840. From all considerations, then, Mr.

At an early hour in the evening, the company dispersed, each feeling a stronger band of union to their Pastor and to one another, and leaving him greatly comforted and encouraged in his 100 CORDS prime Eastern Wood, now for sale and delivered to order. By DEARBORN ministerial labors.

HYMN.

TUNE. - Cuprus.

The Flock, this eve, together meet, Our Pastor cordially to greet; With tender hands and hearts of love, We wish you blessings from above.

These tokens, not for value given. But hallowed with a prayer from Heaven, That Christians' favors may be shed, In rich effusions on your head.

That wisdom on your path may shine, And you reflect the light divine, To point the weary soul to rest, And guide us through this wilderness.

Our Father, when we meet no more, Till we shall meet on Canaan's shore, O grant that each and all may stand, Redeemed and saved at thy right hand.

HYMN.

'Tis pleasant, with united hearts. To join this evening's social band, Our kindly feelings to impart, And cheer and stay our shepherd's hand.

We love to cherish towards our Guide, The friendship which our Fathers taught; They for their teachers in the Lord, Their sympathy with offerings brought.

Kind Pastor, you this flock have blessed, And now we most sincerely pray, The holiness which you possess, May ever guide our wandering way.

And while we with one voice and heart, Pledge here our confidence and love, Once more we pray before we part, We all may meet in Heaven above.

HYMN.

BY, A MEMBER OF THE PARISH. TUNE . - Claremont.

What ties on earth are found, Which more the heart enlarge, Than those that twine around, A pastor and his charge?

With hearts enlarged, we now appear To visit thee another year.

Accept our offering, As we accept of thee: Accept of what we bring, Thou and thy family ; And may this interview be blest. To thee-to thine-and every guest.

Dear Pastor! may we tell The feelings of our heart: A scribe, instructed well In truths divine, thou art-

Whose precepts and whose Christian course Combine the gospel to enforce. Through many years of toil,

Hast thou supplied the fold, With pure and beaten oil-Things needful, new and old ; Hast guarded us from beasts of prey, Who would have borne the fold away.

But we will hear thy voice, Though others say-"lo here!" And thou, we trust from choice, Wilt be our overseer-To warn us of the tempter's snare,

While God thy precious life shalt spare. But, if the prophets fall,

Sure we must separate: The watchman on the wall, Stationed to keep the gate, While at his post may fall asleep, And Zion's sons and daughters weep.

Yet, when the Master bids. We would resign our Guide: Closing, ourselves, his lids, While watching by his side; Hoping that death-divided ties Will re-unite beyond the skies.

THE NATIONS WITHOUT FIRE. According to Pliny, fire for a long time was unknown to some of the ancient Egyptians; and when Euxodus, the celebrated astronomer, showed it to them, they were absolutely in raptures. The Persians, Phænicians, Greeks and several other nations, acknowledged that their ancestors were once without the use of fire; the Chinese confessed the same of their progenitors. Pomponious Mela, Plutarch, and other ancient authors, speak of nations who, at the time they wrote, knew not the use of fire, or had but just learned it. Facts of the same kind are also attested by several modern nations.

The inhabitants of the Marien Islands, which were discovered in 1551, had no idea of fire. Charles P. give him a chance for trial.

Exalted on a spotless seat, Jehovah sits in majesty, And thousands gather at his feet, To worship him in purity. He speaks, and all the hosts of heaven, Awed by his voice, stand back aghast; They tremble, for his fearful words Strike deep upon their waiting hearts.

For God himself sits judge-alone.

"Ye rebel angels of my flock, Who have my holy law defied, And set my power divine at nought, Stand forth that ye may now be tried. Let heaven's unnumbered ranks unfold, And bring to view the horrid scene. Where angels of the Lord have sold Their happiness for mis'ry's pain.'

Thus speaks the high and lofty One, Who sits upon a throne of light; While fear comes o'er the trembling throng, And cherubs shrink beneath his sight. Quickly obeying the command, They gather 'round the judgment seat ; Horror o'erwhelms the sinful band,

Hark! again the Eternal speaks, And seraphs hush their songs of praise; Each angel veils his face and seeks To shun the Almighty's searching gaze. "Why do ye now 'gainst heaven rebel, And seek to sit upon my throne? Why fill the place where cherubs dwell

For justice they are called to meet.

With sinful subjects not mine own? Confounded and abashed they stand, As these unearthly words they hear; No meekness in their hearts is found, No righteous love or holy fear. "Up, get ye hence," Jehovah cries,

With a heaven-thundering voice; "Quickly depart my paradise, Where saints and angels do rejoice.'

Back swing the pearly gates of heaven, And out from thence the rebels come; Down to the depths of wo they're driven, Where is prepared their endless home. No happy songs of praise arise Within their dark and drear abode --No messenger, sent from the skies, Brings pardon from an injured God. A. W. K.

CARELESS WORDS.

Beware, beware of careless words, They have a fearful power. And jar upon the spirit's chords, Through many a weary hour.

Though not design'd to give us pain, Remembrance brings them back again,-The past's most bitter token.

They haunt us through the toilsome day, And through the lonely night, And rise to cloud the spirit's ray, When all beside is bright.

Though from the mind, and with the breath Which gave them, they have flown, Yet wormwood, gall, and even death, May dwell in every tone.

And burning tears can well attest A sentence lightly fram'd, May linger, cankering, in the breast, At which it first was aim'd.

Oh, could my prayer indeed be heard-Might I the past live o er-I'd guard against a careless word, E'en though I spoke no more.

ANECDOTES.

A clergyman was the other day reproving a young person for a too gay and laughing character. "There person for a too gay and laughing character. "There are times for all things," said the pious man—a time to Mr. Clift Rodgers, corner of Granite and Han-"Sir," replied the arch young girl "did you not tell us in your sermon on Sunday, that heaven itself was all smiles, that there were neither tears nor grief nor MEDICAL and SURGICAL profession, and respectsighing there, and saints and angels would eternally live on the smiles of God?" "Yes, my dear. "Well, then," said the little piece of sainted carnation, " may I not do on earth what's done in heaven-can't I have my giggle, too?" The parson thought this a "time to laugh," and laugh he did.

"Who hath redness of eyes?" is thus illustrated. An elderly gentleman, accustomed to "indulge," entered the bar-room of an inn, on the Hudson River, where sat a grave friend toasting his toes by the fire. Lifting a pair of green spectacles upon his forehead rubbing his inflamed eyes, and calling for a hot brandytoddy, he seated himself by the grate; and as he did so, he remarked to Uncle Broad Brim that "his eyes were getting weaker and weaker, and that even spectacles didn't seem to do 'em any good." "I'll tell Josiah Babcock's Store, Railway Village, Milton. He flatters himself that, from a thorough experien think if thee was to wear thy spectacles over thy mouth for a few months, thy eyes would get sound again."

"Sam," said a lady to a milk boy. "I guess from the looks of your milk, that your mother put dirty water in it." "No she didn't nuther. I seed her draw it clean out of the well, 'fore she put it in.'

From Ibrahim Bartlett, Cashier of the Quincy Stone Bank. To Mr. Joseph J. Clark:

DEAR SIR-I am gratified to learn that you are out to establish a place for the sale of Dr. Fernands' getable Indian Arcanum.

I do most cheerfully certify that I am well acquaintwith Mr. Wyman Abercrombie, and believe that s general health as he has stated, has been on the ecline—that he has had frequent turns of raising blood, such a degree as to cause his friends to be greatly armed. For the year past I have noticed convincing vidence that his health has been restored, and I have from his own lips that he attributes his recovery, envely to the use of Dr. Fernands' Medicine.

I feel it my duty to say a word or two in favor of his valuable medicine. I have for more than twenty years been afflicted with a complaint which at times is ery distressing, great flatulency, with a cold heaviess and tightness of the chest, extreme headache, mness of sight, palpitation of the heart, etc.

I am free to say, that since I have used this prepaation which has cured my friend, I feel greatly relieved, and have strong hopes, after following the direct ons, of being restored to health. I think very highly the medicine, and am confident that it will prove flicacious in the cure of many diseases, if once resorted to. Yours, truly,

Beneath a scorching sun, A human being wrought, To whom the evening brought, No hope that his work was done-Covered with dust and sweat, And cheeks with hot tears wet, He toiled the livelong day, No rest the Sabbath gave, For oh! he was a slave-Huzza for Henry Clay.

He leaned upon his spade,-It was at noontide hour, When the sun with fiercest power, Its hottest beams displayed: In tears be sought relief, From agony and grief, His thoughts were far away, For his wife and child were sold, That the gambler might have gold-Huzza for Henry Clay.

A dream of Freedom, he For one short moment caught. And the poor slave spake his thought-"Oh! that I might be free"-His master drawing near Chanced that short prayer to hear And borne by wrath away, He made one desperate bound, And felled him to the ground-Huzza for Henry Clay.

The thong was in his hand-A thong of knotted hide, Hardened with blood beside, And braided as a band-Blow after blow he gave, To that unhappy slave-As if in boyish play, He lashed him till the gore His quivering limbs ran o'er-Huzza for Henry Clay.

Each stripe curled up the flesh, And it crawled upon his bones, Then fainter grew his groans, But as the blood run fresh, 'Twas lash and lash and lash, Oh God! that fearful gash-Thy hand in mercy stay, No-with that knotted hide, He lashed him till he died-Huzza for Henry Clay.

WHO ARE THE FREE? He is not free who dares to sin. Or aid another in the wrong; Who, fearing man, will not begin The work, which conscience urges strong.

He is not free, whose lips are dumb While innocence by craft is crushed; He is a slave, that will not come To help the weak, whose voice is hushed.

He is not free, who cannot rule That spirit by his Maker given, Who, through his life, is made the tool Of vice, by every passion driven,

He is not free who dreads to think, Or seldom speaks his honest thought; Who has no mind, but on the brink Of others' forms, his own hath wrought.

He is not free, whose soul is bound To follow sect, or creed, or clan; Where highest motives lead, he's found, Where all is right, there walks the man.

Buch free-born spirits, God hath given, His word's a lamp to light their way, In golden chains he draws to heaven, And none but slaves need go astray.

CONTENTMENT.

Shun the fevers of the mind-Envy, Hate, Ambition blind, Too much Love, (if love thou must,) And the passions burn of dust. Learn to soothe another's smart; Learn to rule thy own warm heart. For of all the treasures sent Downwards from the azure air. Know there's nothing may compare With the sweetest sweet-Content.

ANECDOTES.

It is said that a gentleman who was once in the course, had a negro servant who was a model of offender was called up for an explanation. He came forward with a peculiarly distressed and mournful look, and when inquired of what this meant, he replied-"Why master, when I see any thing troubles you, or you feel bad, you always drink brandy amazingly. Well, yesterday, I broke one of your china platters, and knew that you would be sorry, so it troubled me. I felt very bad indeed, and I tho't I would take some brandy, too; so I kept drinking and drinking, and I got drunk before I thought of it; but it did no good at all, for I feel just as bad about the platter, and then I feel mortified to think that I should get drunk. It does no good at all to drink when you're in trouble."

DEAR SIR-I am gratified to learn that you are out to establish a place for the sale of Dr. Fernands' retable Indian Arcanum. I do most cheerfully certify that I am well acquaint-with Mr. Wyman Abercrombie, and believe that s general health as he has stated, has been on the line-that he has had frequent turns of raising blood, such a degree as to cause his friends to be greatly armed. For the year past I have noticed convincing vidence that his health has been restored, and I have from his own lips that he attributes his recovery, enely to the use of Dr. Fernands' Medicine.

I feel it my duty to say a word or two in favor of his valuable medicine. I have for more than twenty years been afflicted with a complaint which at times is ery distressing, great flatulency, with a cold heaviess and tightness of the chest, extreme headache, nness of sight, palpitation of the heart, etc.

I am free to say, that since I have used this prepaion which has cured my friend, I feel greatly reliev-, and have strong hopes, after following the direc ns, of being restored to health. I think very highly I the medicine, and am confident that it will prove fficacious in the cure of many diseases, if once resorted to. Yours, truly,

IBRAHIM BARTLETT. Quincy, May 2d, 1843.

AND

Let them laud the notes, that in music floats Through their bright and glittering halls; While the amorous twirl of the hair's bright curl Round the shoulder of beauty falls; But, dearer to me is the song from the tree, And the rich and blossoming bough; Oh! these are the sweets which the rustic greets As he follows the Good Old Plough.

To the cause of the Good Old Plough.

Then how jocund the song as it comes along From the ploughman's lusty throat; Did the hunter's shout, ever yet give out To the brown woods a merrier note: Though he follows no hound, yet his day is crowned With a triumph as good I trow, As though antiered head at his feet lay dead, Instead of the Good Old Plough.

Full many there be that we daily see With a selfish and hollow pride, Whom the ploughman's lot in his humble cot With a scornful look deride, Yet I'd rather take, ay, a hearty shake From his hand than to wealth I'd bow, For the honest grasp of that hand's rough clasp Hath stood by the Good Old Plough.

All honor be then to these gray old men, When at last they are bowed with toil; Their warfare then o'er, why they battle no more, For they've conquered the stubborn soil. And the chaplet each wears are his silver hairs, And ne'er shall the victor's brow With a laurelled crown to the grave go down, Like the sons of the Good Old Plough.

THE FAMILY BIBLE How painfully pleasing the fond recollection Of youthful connexions and innocent joy, When blest with paternal advice and affection. Surrounded with mercies-with peace from on high, I still view the chair of my sire and my mother, The seats of their offspring as ranged on each hand, And that richest of books, which excell'd ev'ry other-The family Bible that lay on the stand; The old fashioned Bible, the dear blessed Bible, The family Bible that lay on the stand.

That Bible, the volume of God's inspiration, At morn and at evening could yield us delight, And the prayer of our sire was a sweet invocation For mercy by day, and for safety through night-Our hymn of thanksgiving with harmony swelling, All warm from the heart of a family band ; Half rais'd us from earth to that rapturous dwelling, Described in the Bible, that lav on the stand : That richest of books which excell'd ev'ry other-The family Bible, that lay on the stand.

Ye scenes of tranquility, long have we parted, My hope's almost gone, and my parents no more; In sorrow and sadness I live broken hearted, And wander unknown on a far distant shore, Yet how can I doubt a dear Savior's protection, Forgetful of gifts from his bountiful hand ; Oh! let me with patience receive his correction, And think of the Bible that lays on the stand ; That richest of Books, which excell'd ev'ry other-The family Bible, that lay on the stand.

> LIFE. Love's a song, and life's the singer, Hone sits listening to the strain. Till old Time the discord-bringer, Jars the music of the twain. Love, and Life, and Time, together, Rarely yet were friendly found; If love heralds sunny weather. Time, to other duties bound, Buries Life half under ground ; O the lot of Life, how sad!

Why should Time thus fail to cherish All that lends existence worth? Wherefore should Love droop and perish. As but doomed to woe and earth? Love, and Life, and Time, together, Better friends we hope may be, If Time's of inconsistent feather Love and Hope should still agree Life is lost between the three. O the lot of Life how sad!

NO. 4 BRATTLE SQUARE DR. BUTLER deems it prudent to remark, as quackery Empiricism, and the grossest imposition prevails to a great extent in this community, that he is properly qualified in his profession; and that he has seen more practice, and really cured more patients of various and complicated diseases, than has fallen to the lot of many practitioners.

Dr. Butler's practice is not confined to any peculiar class of diseases as many may perhaps infer, from the general tenor of a certain class of advertisers, who have nearly exhausted the vocabulary of billingsgate, in the fulsome description of their infallible specifics and multifarious compounds, for the immediate cure of one disease.

Dr. Butler treats all diseases that flesh is heir to, in the most approved and scientific manner; and from his long experience and extensive practice, he is enabled to give satisfaction to all who see fit to honor im with their confidence. His office is arranged for the convenience of both

DR. FERNANDS' Vegetable Indian Arcannm,

FOR THE CURE OF Consumption and Liver Complaint, Inflammation of the Lungs and Spitting of Blood, Scrofula, Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Rheumatism, Gout, Obstinate Cutaneous Eruptions, Pimples or Pustules on the Face, Female Weakness, Jaundice, Piles, Imprudence in Life, Enlargement and Pain in the Bones, and Disenses arising from an injudicious use of Mercury. The complexion is greatly improved by this medicine.

THIS is a preparation which Dr. Fernands, who is an Indian of the Cherokee nation, has used with great success in the above complaints, practising as he has for many years as an Indian doctor among several tribes. Dr. Fernands, who prepares this medicine REPAIRING done in a neat manner and at short does not contend that it will cure all the diseases which the human system is liable to experience, but feels safe in assuring the public that when it has been taken according to his directions, it has never failed, in any of the complaints abovementioned, of effecting a speedy Persons are invited to call and examine before they utchase. A liberal discount, will be made to whole a preparation which may be taken by those of the most delicate constitutions, or even a small child, without the least fear as to its results upon the system. One bottle will convince the incredulous invalid that no more has been said in its favor than its virtues safely warrant. Many respectable physicians have used, and even prescribed, this valuable medicine. To prevent imposition, each bill of directions accompanying the medicine will be signed by J. K. Fernands, in his own hand writing, and also by his only author-

For the year past I have noticed convincing evidence that his health has been restored, and I have it from his own lips that he attributes his recovery, entirely to the use of Dr. Fernands' Medicine. I feel it my duty to say a word or two in favor of this valuable medicine. I have for more than twenty years been afflicted with a complaint which at times is very distressing, great flatulency, with a cold heaviness and tightness of the chest, extreme headache, dimness of sight, palpitation of the heart, etc.

I am free to say, that since I have used this preparation which has cured my friend, I feel greatly relieved, and have strong hopes, after following the directions, of being restored to health. I think very highly of the medicine, and am confident that it will prove efficacious in the cure of many diseases, if once resorted to. Yours, truly, IBRAHIM BARTLETT.
